Little Flowers

Words and Music by Danny Lee

Little flowers never worry when the wind begins to blow, and they never, never cry, when the rain begins to fall.

Though it's wet and oh, so cold, soon the sun will shine again; then they'll smile unto the world, for their beauty to behold.

*So let it rain, let it rain, let it pour;
 Let old trouble keep a-knockin' at my door;
 If we learn the right form wrong,
 It will help to make us strong.*

When the clouds begin to gather, and the storm begins to grow, little flowers don't complain tho' they're tossing to and fro.

Well, I guess they've learned the secret even little flowers know; if it never, never rains, then they'll never, never grow.

Lord, please help us learn the secret even little flowers know; if it never, never rains, then we'll never, never grow.
